

A Wealthy Mind Organization Blueprint

Worksheet Included

Special Report by Margaret Lukasik

If You Are Suffering From Information Overload, Here's A Great Way To Help you.

I'm constantly collecting information for myself and to pass on to you and those I care about. And yes, I collect software. It's a little hobby of mine. So I know what you're going through if you do the same. I know, I'm guilty of making your collection larger by the week.

You've collected a ton of e-courses, you have files of audio downloads (yes, I do too) and even information you've sent away for to read when you have more time. This is why I keep my Actions of Success Letter SHORT!

So how do you turn this information into an organized means of assistance, rather than an annoying bunch of files clogging up your computer and causing you nothing but confusion (my audio lesson above is geared toward keeping you focused)?

If this is a problem for you, or to prevent this from happening, I've created this easy method of organization to help you develop a wealthy mind by using what you need and making it work for you.

Here's an action plan to follow.

Jot down the personal information or business information you are most interested in following. You can make two separate plans if you don't wish to combine them (I've already done this for you).

For self-improvement information here are some examples:

- Christian only
- General self-improvement
- Business information with the Christian ethic involved for success
- General Information that states a positive mind-set for success
- A general personal goal for Improving a single part of your life.

For business information here are some examples of interest:

- Selling on eBay
- Affiliate Marketing
- Blogging
- AdSense
- Resale Rights
- Successful website presence
- Membership Site
- Writing e-books
- Creating Your Own Product
- Coaching
- Viral article writing
- etc

Once you make a decision, only focus on that one idea until you see results. Don't get distracted by the next "big thing" that comes along! To succeed, you must focus upon a particular area of interest.

Next, make a checklist of the things you need to be successful with your area of interest and categorize those things under "Things I can do" and "Things I can't do".

Start with taking action with the "can't do" list. Take one at a time and learn them. You may need a secondary list for that category called "Where can I learn them?"

Then next to these items make a note of an eBook, video, etc that you've already invested in that can help you check that item off your list. Or if you don't have an existing product, go to Google to find a web address that will help you create the product you need.

BUSINESS EXAMPLE

You can apply this system for any niche. But first you need to start putting together your "to do" list. This is a list of ALL the things you need to do in order for you to move forward in your chosen business interest.

For example, if you want to focus on selling e-books you might add the following to your list:

- Where to get the best website that will guide you into success and will help you determine the best domain name, and register it for you.
- How to create sales pages and download pages with your name, order links, support links, etc.
- You need to know how to upload your products and web pages to your server.
- A way to accept payments (ie, PayPal, Clickbank, Merchant Account, etc)
- An autoresponder service to collect email addresses in exchange for information related to the product you're selling (to build your list of targeted prospects).

And etc.... (You get the idea)

Of course, there could be several sub-lists under the main items listed above which would further list specific tools or resources required to achieve the task.

Once you've completed the list, go to the next step and fill out your worksheet, listing the things you "can do" and "can't do" respectively.

By starting the "can't do" list on your worksheet first, you'll be attacking the parts that are holding you back and preventing you from moving forward in your online venture or personal goals.

Remember, you may already have many of these resources hiding on your hard drive or on my free gift page. Also write and ask me if I might have what you need. I collect software and e-books, so if I have the license to give it to you I will. Remember, I'm here for your success.

Also, there are many viral tutorials online that will help you. Just look up what you need on Google.

Keep Up The Pace

Just as with God in anything He leads you to do, take each step one at a time, and it won't take long for you to see the results.

So determine your next step right now by using the worksheet below -- it works with the audio on this page. It will help get you organized, use the information you've gathered, and help you eliminate what you don't need.

However, I save all my excess materials on a DVD, organized for future use. You never know when something might come in handy!

Before I end this section, I want to remind you that to have a wealthy mind is to have an uncluttered mind. Clear yours now and get it organized in what you want to do. Then focus upon it and get it accomplished step by step. If you need more ability, God will give it to you.
